The Quest to Find Responsive Data: Five-Part Webinar Series

Exterro will present a complimentary five-part webinar series featuring e-discovery data management experts who will teach participants how to safely navigate the journey for responsive data without stumbling into pitfalls.

The experts will discuss best practices for locating responsive data more quickly, controlling collection, processing and review costs, and leveraging technology to develop smarter case strategies.

The first installment in the series, scheduled for August 13, will cover developing search criteria for determining document relevancy. Next, on Sept. 9, the discussion will be about identifying and accessing data sources for collection.

On Sept. 30, experts will discuss searching through large volumes of data. Then on Oct. 21 the subject will be working with third-party collection and processing providers.

The final event in the series will be Nov. 11, covering the use of in-house e-discovery search and collection software effectively.
