So You Think You Know Patent Claims? Webinar Addresses Patent Drafting and Analysis

Fitch, Even, Tabin & Flannery LLP will hold a complimentary webinar, "So You Think You Know Patent Claims? Advanced Lessons in Patent Drafting and Analysis," presented by Steven G. Parmelee and Allen E. Hoover. The webinar will take place on Thursday, Feb. 25, 2016, at 9 am PST / 10 am MST / 11 am CST / 12 noon EST.

The firm says that, even if you have practiced IP law for many years or are otherwise well-versed in what's involved in patent drafting, you may be surprised by what you don't know about patent claims.

Presenters will cover the following topics:
• The right and wrong way to use dependent claims to strengthen a patent
• How to avoid claim language that can impair the patent holder's rights
• What you may not know about alternative claim language in patent claims

The firm says this webinar will be the first in an occasional series of "master classes" for experienced IP practitioners, patent owners, and others entrenched in the world of IP who already possess at least a basic understanding of patents and patent claims. It will be of interest to both those who analyze and litigate patents and those who draft patent applications.

CLE credit has been approved for California and Illinois and is pending in Nebraska. Other states may also award CLE credit upon attendee request.

Following the live event, a recording of the webinar will be available to view for one year at fitcheven.com.
