Flexibility, the Key to Unlocking the Value of Contract Management

IBM offers a complimentary on-demand webinar on how to optimize proper contract governance across the global organization.

Contracts are the foundation of every business relationship, IBM says on its website. But today, most businesses can’t ensure that the proper protections are contained in each and every agreement, as many legal departments don’t have the staff or resources to examine every single contract under management.

This webinar covers: Why flexibility matters to contracting for your people, your processes and the supporting technology, how to leverage contract management solutions to fit the ever-changing landscape of your enterprise, and what your peers are doing today to keep extending the value of contracting.

Watch the on-demand webinar.