Former Appellate Justice Bill Whitehill Joins Condon Tobin in Dallas

DALLAS – William G. (Bill) Whitehill, a former Justice on the Texas Fifth District Court of Appeals, has joined Condon Tobin Sladek Thornton Nerenberg, a Dallas-based business law firm.

Justice Whitehill authored more than 600 opinions covering a wide range of Texas legal issues during his six years on the bench in Texas's largest and most active intermediate appellate court.

Prior to being elected to the court in 2015 Justice Whitehill was a trial and appellate associate and partner for more than 32 years in Dallas. His experience in private practice includes the successful management of numerous high-profile appeals and litigation involving antitrust, commercial, -banking, securities, real estate, hospitality, intellectual property, domestic and international arbitrations, and trust and estate matters.

He also serves as an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association and is a frequent continuing legal education speaker for bar associations, law firms, and the National Institute for Trial Advocacy.
