

Former Holland & Hart Partner Dies on Mount Everest

Colorado attorney and former Holland & Hart patent partner Christopher Kulish died Monday after reaching the summit of Mount Everest, the latest climber to perish in what's become a deadly season on the mountain, according to Bloomberg Law.

"Kulish, 62, died early in the morning at a camp below the summit on its southeast ridge during his descent," writes Bloomberg's Meghan Tribe. She reports that an initial assessment of Kulish's death indicates that he died of cardiac arrest, though the cause is not yet known, his brother said.

He was a patent partner in Holland & Hart's Boulder, Colorado, office from 2002 to 2009, before opening his own solo practice in Denver.

Read the Bloomberg Law article.