Former Paralegal Joins Same Law Firm as an Attorney

Family law boutique Orsinger, Nelson, Downing & Anderson, LLP, announced the addition of associate Jessica Anderson, who previously worked as a paralegal in the firm's Dallas and Frisco offices.

"We are honored that Jessica decided to rejoin our firm following law school," said firm partner Keith Nelson. "She has a passion for helping others, and it shows through her work ethic. She's a great new addition to our team."

In a release, the firm said Anderson will guide clients in matters involving divorce, modification, enforcement and child custody, and help navigate the transitional phase of divorce.

"Working as a paralegal at ONDA helped me understand what families go through during and after a divorce," said Anderson. "I'm glad to be back at the firm as a lawyer and am ready to help our clients during what can be a difficult time in their lives."

Anderson earned her law degree from the Texas A&M University School of Law, where she served as vice president of the Family Law Student Association. She earned her undergraduate degree, magna cum laude, from Texas Woman's University. She is a member of the Dallas Association of Young Lawyers.