Buchalter adds IP shareholder in LA

Gabriel Green has joined Buchalter as a shareholder in the Litigation Practice Group in Los Angeles, the firm announced in a news release.

Green's practice focuses on intellectual property, franchise, real estate, and commercial litigation. He represents corporations and public personalities encountering infringement claims involving musical compositions, video game graphics, sculptural works, jewelry design and literary works. Green's franchise litigation practice derives from his representation of nationally and internationally renowned franchisors with brands in a range of industries, the release states.

He joins Buchalter from Archer Norris where he was a shareholder.

"Gabe's practice and expertise are an excellent addition to our growing litigation team, and exactly the type of talent we want here at the Firm," said Adam Bass, President and Chief Executive Officer of Buchalter. "I'm so pleased to welcome Gabe, and we look forward his practice flourishing."

Earlier this year, Green was recognized as a Top 10% Lawyer in the U.S. (Intellectual Property Law) by Lawyers of Distinction. He is a member of the Association of Business Trial Lawyers and previously an Editorial Board Member of Los Angeles Lawyer Magazine.

"My practice fits well within Buchalter's full-service platform," added Green. "I'm absolutely thrilled at the opportunity to be joining such an excellent group of litigators that provides my clients with a full range of business services and an exceptional experience."

Green earned his J.D. from the University of San Diego School of Law and his B.A. at Pennsylvania State University.
