FisherBroyles Adds Commercial Litigation Partner Barry Goheen in Atlanta

- Barry Goheen has joined FisherBroyles, LLP as a commercial litigation partner in its Atlanta office.

In a release, the firm said Goheen, with more than 25 years of experience, focuses his practice on consumer class actions, credit-related financial products and services, data breach and privacy litigation, and complex litigation. He has served as lead or co-counsel in over 50 class actions in all areas of the law, including antitrust, financial products and services, securities fraud, consumer protection, privacy/data breach, and product liability and general commercial disputes in state and federal courts.

Prior to joining FisherBroyles, Goheen practiced at King & Spalding LLP for more than 22 years, and was a partner with the firm for more than 16 years.

Goheen received his J.D. from Vanderbilt Law School and his Bachelor of Arts from Vanderbilt University.