

GCSG Launches a New Due Diligence Report Product for Businesses

GCSG, a source of risk management solutions for businesses, announces the launch of a new due diligence report product. The report is intended for companies that need a quick snapshot of the potential risk a third-party relationship may present to their business, according to a release from the company.

“The reputation and compliance focus of third-party partners has emerged as a top concern for companies operating in a global market. Businesses that operate globally have realized the reputation of their partnerships can impact their own reputation and even result in civil and criminal enforcement actions,” said Jonathan Mellard, founder, GCSG.

The reports contain company and individual information, key risks identified on the report subject, and country specific risks. The report is part of a suite of third-party risk management solutions that also includes advisory services, in-depth onsite assessments, and compliance training.

“We are excited to announce the launch of our new report and to build on our existing suite of third party risk solutions. This report will help our clients assess some of the risks involved with their current and potential third party relationships,” added Mellard.
