

High Performance Counsel Launches New Content Partnership With Foxwordy

High Performance Counsel, a legal industry publication delivering thought-leadership and commentary, announced its new content partnership with Foxwordy, the digital collaboration platform for lawyers and law professionals.

“We are delighted to announce this partnership and provide High Performance Counsel’s leadership perspectives to the entire Foxwordy network and our enterprise customers,” said Monica Zent, founder and CEO of Foxwordy. “This partnership represents Foxwordy’s ongoing commitment to providing the highest quality content and resources for our customers as they navigate an ever-changing legal industry.”

David Kinnear, founder and CEO of High Performance Counsel Media Group, said, “We’re enthusiastic about having our content shared with top legal industry professionals through our partnership with Foxwordy. With the legal sector evolving so rapidly, legal professionals have much to gain through collaborating and sharing ideas, experience and opportunities, which Foxwordy’s platform helps facilitate.”