

Hunton Andrews Kurth Adds Boston Counsel David C. McSweeney

Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP announced the expansion of its global environmental practice with the addition of David C. McSweeney as counsel in the firm's Boston office.

In a release, the firm said McSweeney's practice focuses on environmental and health and safety legal issues associated with permitting, compliance, transactional due diligence, regulatory development, enforcement defense and related litigation. He brings almost 20 years of experience working with energy companies, including those in the oil and natural gas industries, as well as with manufacturers, financial institutions and other corporations.

Before joining Hunton Andrews Kurth, McSweeney most recently was in-house counsel at a Fortune 500 midstream energy company in the natural gas and natural gas liquids industry, ONEOK, Inc., where he was lead environmental attorney.