

Perkins Coie Moves San Diego Office

Perkins Coie has announced that its San Diego office will relocate on Dec. 10, 2018 to 11452 El Camino Real, Suite 300. The firm's new 37,000-square-foot space will accommodate the office's recent and planned growth in its existing and additional practice areas, the firm said in a release.

The release also said that Perkins Coie established an office in San Diego in June 2010 to serve the intellectual property needs of national and international clients with business in Southern California and support the firm's growth strategy on the West Coast. The office quickly expanded to provide a full range of legal services. The firm's other West Coast offices are located in Los Angeles, Palo Alto, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and Bellevue, WA.

"Our firm is proud to have had a presence in San Diego for more than eight years, and we look forward to continuing to serve clients in the region and maintaining our presence within the business community for years to come," said Matthew Bernstein, Managing Partner of Perkins Coie's San Diego office. "Our new space will enable us to continue with our planned attorney growth and will increase our presence in the San Diego community."