Important eDiscovery Case Law Decisions of 2017 and Their Impact on 2018

CloudNine has posted an on-demand webinar that covers key 2017 case law decisions covered by the company's eDiscovery Daily blog and what the legal profession can learn from those rulings.

The presentation leader is Doug, VP of Products and Professional Services for CloudNine. And special consultant is Tom O'Connor, a nationally known consultant, speaker, and writer in the field of computerized litigation support systems.

Topics include:

- Handling objections to production requests
- Waiver of privilege and Rule 502(d)
- Case law related to subpoenaed production of international data
- Control of data stored by a third party
- Dictation of search terms and production scope by courts
- Form of production disputes and the issues involved
- Performing keyword search before Technology Assisted Review
- The state of sanctions with the new Rule 37(e)
