Webcast: Compliance and Contract Management

Compliance Week will present a webcast titled "Compliance and Contract Management –The Right People, Process & Technology" to highlight effective strategies and considerations to maintain compliance with contractual agreements in the U.S. and abroad.

The event will be Wednesday, June 27, at 2 p.m. EDT.

"While relying on both outside counsel and third-party legal services providers to meet standards and governing party obligations, competitive organizations enlist effective digital strategies where appropriate and seek to automate as many tasks as possible," Compliance Week says on its website. "As we explore the people, processes and technology that aid compliance and contract management, we'll discuss e-Communications monitoring, digital learning services, open source software and trending technology such as block chain contracts, and other tools."
