Haynes and Boone's Spring 2019 Energy Roundup highlights an evolving United States oil and gas industry responding to recent commodity price volatility, the firm said on its website.

It also examines new international investment opportunities arising from legal changes in the United Kingdom and Brazil.

And the Spring 2019 Borrowing Base Redeterminations Survey predicts a conservative, but not knee-jerk, response by banks to the late 2018 drop in oil prices.

"Investor activism is on the rise in the public E&P space – our capital markets group tracks the various players and the demands they are marking. In the midst of this changing market, our guest contributor from Opportune LLP gives an outlook on upstream trends in 2019 and we also look at the related impact in the midstream space," the firm said in the introduction to the report.
