10 Contract Issues to Consider When Implementing an ERP System

A Tech & Sourcing blog post on the website of Morgan Lewis offers 10 framework issues to consider when in-house lawyers start thinking about how to support a business client that is looking to implement a new or replacement enterprise resource platform (or more commonly known as an ERP system).

The list, compiled by Barbara Murphy Melby and Ada Finkel, is intended to help in-house lawyers understand the objectives, parameters, and potential risk areas of a transaction.

Some of the issues discussed include key objectives, deal structure and success factors, third-party dependencies, an implementation plan, fees, key risk areas, and more.
