Contract Considerations in Dealing with Foreign Entities

Nexsen Pruet attorneys Peter Santos, Christy Myatt, and David Garrett led a recent presentation on cross-border contracts to members of the Association of Corporate Counsel Research Triangle Area.

According to a post on JDSupra, the team explored how more than 10,000 North Carolina businesses export more than $31 billion worth of merchandise every year and support more than 164,000 jobs.

Some of the general topics included: common law and civil law countries are different; cultrual differences can lead to legal differences; and comparing U.S. contracts to other nations.
