

Key Issues for Due Diligence of Government Contracts – Part II

Comprehensive due diligence review of any target company that performs government contracts should include evaluation of five broad categories relating to general business matters, Kimi Murakami writes in Part II of a report on Piliero Mazza's PM Legal Minute blog.

She discusses key issues to be considered when performing due diligence in M&A transactions for government contractors.

The topics include entity formation basics, registrations and permits, employee related matters, intellectual property related matters, and financial and other business related matters.
