Podcast: Key Contractual Provisions for Employers to Incorporate in Confidentiality Covenants

An on-demand podcast episode of The Proskauer Brief discusses potential pitfalls that lurk in employment agreements and other employee compensation arrangements.

Speakers are Kate Napalkova, special employee benefits and executive compensation counsel, and associate Oleg Zakatov.

The podcast focuses on key contractual provisions that employers should incorporate into any document that includes a confidentiality covenant.

“Employers should be sure to tune in to see why involving your in-house team and outside executive compensation and employment counsel to regularly audit employment agreements, employee handbooks, independent confidentiality and IP assignment agreements, and other company policies is always a good idea,” according to an introduction to the podcast.

Listen to the podcast or read a transcript.