

GlobeNet General Counsel Josh Forman Joins International Association of Defense Counsel

The International Association of Defense Counsel (IADC) has announced that Josh Forman, general counsel and chief compliance officer at GlobeNet in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, has accepted an invitation to join the IADC, the preeminent invitation-only global legal organization for attorneys who represent corporate and insurance interests.

“I consider it an honor to play a small role in bettering our civil justice system, and I see the IADC as the best place for me to do so,” Mr. Forman said. “Becoming a member of the IADC signifies a true commitment to bettering myself as a corporate lawyer.”

Mr. Forman is responsible for the Legal and Regulatory departments at GlobeNet, which is a leading wholesale telecom service provider in Latin America. He has multiple years of experience representing clients in significant merger, joint venture and commercial transactions involving the United States, Canada, and Latin America. He has represented several financial technology companies in commercial, corporate and regulatory matters.

Mr. Forman is actively involved with the Association of Corporate Counsel (ACC), previously serving on the board for the ACC’s South Florida chapter.

Mr. Forman received his J.D. (cum laude) from St. Thomas University School of Law and his Bachelor of Business Administration from George Washington University.

About the International Association of Defense Counsel

The IADC is the preeminent invitation-only global legal organization for attorneys who represent corporate and insurance interests. Founded in 1920, the IADC has members who hail from six continents, 51 countries and territories, and all 50 U.S. states. The core purposes of the IADC are to enhance the development of skills, promote professionalism, and facilitate camaraderie among its members and their clients, as well as the broader civil justice community.
