Google Exec Clouded by Scandal is a Veteran Silicon Valley Counsel

David Drummond, the chief legal officer of Google parent Alphabet Inc. and a one-time Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati partner, was cited in a New York Times report about the allegedly lax approach that Google has taken to relationships between supervisors and their subordinates.

Bloomberg Law focused on the part of the report that detailed an alleged extramarital affair involving Drummond and a subordinate, an in-house senior contract manager at Google. The affair resulted in the woman giving birth to Drummond's child, the Times reported.

"The report, which cited [Jennifer] Blakely and other Google employees, said she and Drummond had a son in 2007," Bloomberg reports. "Thereafter, it said, Drummond disclosed the relationship to the company—and Blakely was asked to leave because relationships between managers and subordinates were 'discouraged.'"

Read the Bloomberg Law article.