Graham Cronogue Joins Blank Rome as Litigation Partner in Washington

Blank Rome LLP has added trial lawyer Graham Cronogue as a partner in its Business Litigation group in Washington, D.C.

Cronogue, who joins from Baker McKenzie, brings a decade of experience in high-stakes litigation and arbitration across industries including technology, aerospace, life sciences, energy, and government contracts. He has represented corporations and individuals in state and federal courts nationwide, as well as in global arbitration forums.

His practice includes appearances before U.S. regulatory bodies such as the Department of Defense and the Environmental Protection Agency. He has led arbitration hearings and trials, handled complex discovery issues, and secured recognition or opposition of foreign judgments.

Cronogue is also active in pro bono advocacy, recently recognized by the D.C. Bar Association and a human rights organization for his work, which includes defending refugee rights and supporting criminal justice reform.

He clerked for federal judges in Washington, D.C., and New Jersey, holds a law degree from Duke University, and earned his undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.