

GrayRobinson Continues Washington Growth, Relocates To And Expands Office Space At The District's Navy Yard

GrayRobinson has relocated its Washington office to Navy Yard, doubling office space since the firm's expansion to the District was announced in 2019. Now located at 99 M Street, SE, the firm will occupy 4,000 square feet of Class A office space at the Capitol Riverfront.

"We are thrilled to move closer to Capitol Hill and establish a new presence in the Navy Yard. The area's proximity to government buildings, public transportation and major highways is in line with the firm's initiative to increase its lobbying portfolio at the intersection of business and government," said Doyle Bartlett, managing director of GrayRobinson's Washington office. "The space will bring even more vibrancy and energy to the GrayRobinson team as we help our clients achieve their goals and continue to grow our footprint in the nation's capital."

The new 11-story, top-tier boutique property provides generous space as the firm continues to embrace growth. Currently, the firm's Washington-based team consists of six attorneys, consultants and professional staff who advocate on behalf of GrayRobinson clients in the business and political arena. The office's proximity to Capitol Hill will allow our attorneys and consultants the convenience of better serving local clients and the greater D.C. community.

GrayRobinson's Government Affairs and Lobbying Practice Group consists of 26 lobbyists throughout Florida and Washington working collaboratively at all levels of government. The firm is heavily engaged in the business of federal, state, local and other intergovernmental lobbying services year-round.

GrayRobinson is a full-service law and lobbying firm with attorneys and government relations professionals throughout 15 offices.
