

Greensfelder Named among 'Healthiest Employers' in St. Louis

Greensfelder, Hemker & Gale, P.C., is pleased to announce that the firm has been named a finalist in the St. Louis Business Journal's 2020 list of the "Healthiest Employers" in St. Louis. The firm is listed in the medium size category for companies with 100 to 499 employees and is the only law firm among the 24 finalists across all categories.

Greensfelder's Well-Being Program strives to increase the overall wellness of all employees through opportunities encompassing physical, financial, emotional and social health. Initiatives have included yoga, Pilates and meditation classes; seminars on nutrition, financial health and other topics; a healthy recipes cookbook; and numerous other opportunities. During the COVID-19 pandemic, the firm strived to ensure that employees working remotely still had wellness resources available, including virtual challenges and seminars and tips on setting up ergonomic workstations at home. Launched in early 2019, the firm's Well-Being Program is led by Greensfelder Human Resources Manager Jessie Fenton.

The list of "Healthiest Employers" finalists is available on the Business Journal's website (subscription required). The winners in each category will be profiled in the publication's Aug. 28 issue.
