

Firm Wins on Both Sides of the Docket in Recent Civil Trials

Lawyers with Gruber Hurst Elrod Johansen Hail Shank have recently scored big wins on the plaintiff side and the defendant side of the docket in civil litigation.

On the plaintiff's side, the firm's Trey Crawford was co-leader of the trial team that secured a $21.4 million civil damages award to a young woman who was sexually assaulted by the owner of a popular Addison restaurant. The bench ruling on behalf of the unidentified victim known as "Jane Doe" against the owner of Addison's Pastazios restaurant received media coverage on multiple prints and broadcast outlets. To read the Dallas Morning News article, click here.

And on the defense side, the firm's Orrin Harrison appeared in Law360 and in Texas Lawyer, which named him "Litigator of the Week," commenting on the firm's successful defense of Dillon Gage, a Dallas-based coin and gold wholesaler, against claims by the federal government that Dillon Gage fraudulently received more than $5 million from an Allen Stanford-affiliated company. Click here for the Texas Lawyer feature.