

HanesBrands General Counsel to Retire

“Joia Johnson, chief administrative officer, general counsel and corporate secretary of Winston-Salem, North Carolina-based HanesBrands, plans to retire, effective May 2021,” reports HanesBrands in their Newsroom.

“HanesBrands is conducting an internal and external search for her replacement, according to the company.”

“Johnson joined NYSE-listed HanesBrands as chief legal officer, general counsel and corporate secretary in 2007. She took up her present role in 2016, and has responsibility for legal, CSR, government affairs, real estate and human resources.”
