Husch Blackwell LLP Partner J.Y. Miller Joins International Association of Defense Counsel

The International Association of Defense Counsel (IADC) has announced that J.Y. Miller, managing partner of Husch Blackwell LLP's The Link virtual office, has accepted an invitation to join the IADC, the preeminent invitation-only global legal organization for attorneys who represent corporate and insurance interests.

Miller is based in St. Louis.

A member of his firm's executive board, Miller focuses his practice on serving as national coordinating counsel for toxic tort litigation. Previously, he worked as a prosecutor and criminal defense counsel while serving on active duty in the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General's Corps.

Miller also is a member of the Defense Research Institute.

Miller received his J.D. from the University of Missouri School of Law and his Bachelor of Science (summa cum laude) from the University of Tennessee at Martin.

About the International Association of Defense Counsel
The IADC is the preeminent invitation-only global legal organization for attorneys who represent corporate and insurance interests. Founded in 1920, the IADC has members who hail from six continents, 51 countries and territories, and all 50 U.S. states. The core purposes of the IADC are to enhance the development of skills, promote professionalism, and facilitate camaraderie among its members and their clients, as well as the broader civil justice community.
