

Indianapolis Attorney Convicted of OWI Suspended for 90 Days

“The Indiana Supreme Court has imposed a 90-day suspension jointly proposed by the Disciplinary Commission and the respondent” Andrew Homan, with automatic reinstatement following his conviction of operating a vehicle while intoxicated and several violations, reports Mike Frisch in Legal Profession Blog.

“Respondent was arrested for, and later pled guilty to, OWI. As a result of his refusal to comply with Indiana’s implied consent law at the time of his arrest, and later as a result of his conviction, Respondent’s license was suspended from May 2017 until July 2018. Respondent twice drove while his license was suspended. In addition, Respondent’s criminal probation was revoked after he was found in violation for consuming alcohol.”
