

Investigating The SCOTUS Leak: Here's What Needs to be Done

"H&M will pay $36 million to settle accusations that the fashion retailer illegally kept millions of dollars in gift cards that customers never used, New York Attorney General Letitia James said on Thursday. The Swedish company, whose full name is H&M Hennes & Mauritz AB, will pay $28.26 million to," reports Nicholas Peck And Thomas Feeney in The Hill.

"There are ways, however, to get to the truth while respecting the court's singular and delicate ecosystem. Supreme Court Marshal Col. Gail A. Curley has been charged with investigating the leak, and she has an admirable and impressive record of service to our country."

Read the article.