

ITC Names New VP, Deputy General Counsel

“NOVI-ITC Holdings Corp., the nation’s largest independent electricity transmission company in the United States, has named Jenny D’Anna as vice president and deputy general counsel, legal services,” reports Matt Roush in MITECHNEWS.

“In this role, D’Anna is responsible for the legal services group within ITC’s legal department. That group is composed of the regulatory and legislative, development, corporate and securities, real estate, capital projects and maintenance, and business operations, contracts and technology practice areas across the company’s seven-state service territory.”

“D’Anna joined ITC in 2010 and most recently served as assistant general counsel for utility operations for ITC Holdings. Prior to joining ITC, she worked in private practice specializing in real estate transactions.”
