

Jaguars' FA Spending Spree Includes 3 of the Biggest Contracts

"Last season, Jaguars fans mocked GM Trent Baalke by wearing clown wigs to games. Now, he's attempting to buy their loyalty with a massive spending spree. By Tuesday morning, Baalke had reportedly given out three of the five most lucrative contracts in 2022 NFL free agency. Suddenly, with a," reports Doug Greenberg in Front Office Sports.

"Franchise QB in Trevor Lawrence and the first pick in the draft, last season's league-worst 3-14 team can possibly win now but the new signings' questionable production and injury histories raise some red flags. WR Christian Kirk: 3 YR, $72M the sixth-most total money among WRs, third-most ($84M) with incentives. He has zero Pro Bowls."

Read the article.