Kelley Meyerriecks Joins Bradley's Real Estate Practice

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that Kelley Meyerriecks has joined the firm's Nashville, TN, office as a senior attorney. Ms. Meyerriecks will practice as part of the firm's Real Estate team.

"We are excited to welcome Kelley to our Nashville office," said Bradley Nashville Office Managing Partner Lauren Jacques. "We know she is going to be an asset to our Real Estate group and bring a wealth of knowledge that will help advance the business interests of our clients."

Ms. Meyerriecks drafts, negotiates and administers contracts for land leases, track leases, right of entry, and utility crossing licenses by collaborating with a range of clients, including Fortune 500 companies, individuals, and governments. She closely collaborates with leadership to determine effective business strategies and manage real estate assets. She also has extensive experience in state real estate procurement, lease, and disposition regulatory schemes.

Prior to joining Bradley, Ms. Meyerriecks was an attorney in the Real Estate Management Division of the State of Tennessee Department of General Services, where she drafted, negotiated and managed contracts for license and lease agreements, as well as contracts for real estate brokers, designers, and environmental remediation providers. She presented complex real estate transactions to state regulatory boards and represented the state on zoning matters involving metro government council decisions and state property.

Ms. Meyerriecks graduated with a B.A. from the University of Tennessee and earned her J.D. from Paul M. Herbert Law Center

Louisiana State University.
