Littler Earns Top Rankings in 2026 Chambers Latin America Guide

Littler, the world's largest labor and employment law practice representing management, has secured multiple recognitions in the Chambers Latin America 2026 guide, with several offices and attorneys earning top honors in the region.

The firm's Colombia and Costa Rica offices received Band 1 rankings in the Labor & Employment category, reflecting their leadership in the field. Additionally, Littler's offices in Mexico and Puerto Rico were also acknowledged in the same practice area.

The recognition extends to several notable attorneys across different countries:

- Colombia: Francisco Buriticá, Andrés DaCosta Herrera, Gustavo José Gnecco, Carlos Hernán Godoy, Santiago Martínez, and Ana Cristina Medina were recognized as leaders in labor and employment law.
- Costa Rica: Marco Durante Calvo, José Joaquín Acuña Solís, Francisco Salas Chaves, and Oscar Corrales Retana received accolades for their work.
- Mexico: David E. Leal González and Mónica Schiaffino were highlighted for their expertise.
- Puerto Rico: Carl Schuster, Anabel Rodríguez-Alonso, Erika Berríos-Berríos, and Mariela Rexach earned recognition for their significant contributions to the field.
- Venezuela: Juan Carlos Varela was also recognized for his labor law work.

Federico Bernal García was named an "Up-and-Coming" attorney, underscoring his rising potential and pivotal role in the firm’s growth.

The Chambers Latin America guide evaluates firms and attorneys based on factors such as legal knowledge, professional integrity, client service, and commercial insight. This recognition underscores Littler’s commitment to excellence in labor and employment law across Latin America.

Chambers and Partners’ rankings are highly respected in the legal industry, offering a comprehensive guide that covers 19 jurisdictions across Latin America. The guide’s methodology includes client feedback, peer reviews, and in-depth research, ensuring that only the most accomplished legal professionals and firms are featured.
