

M&A Powering Up: The 3 Types of Deals in the New Energy Economy

“2021 was a monumental year for the sustainability-focused capital markets. Almost every type of financing vehicle related to climate tech and renewable energy hit all-time highs: SPACs, IPOs, M&A, Growth Equity, Venture Capital. While I am partial to the venture capital and growth equity stages, there has been,” reports John Tough in Forbes.

“The reason M&A is so exciting is because there is now a clear strategy delineation between firms inventing the new energy economy, adapting to this new framework, or trying to adjust exposure to catch minor tailwinds with the theme. But first, what is the new energy economy The new energy economy is the fraframework for our evolving.”

Read the article.