

Marcos G. Ronquillo Named Texas' Leading Hispanic Business Arbitration and Litigation Attorney of the Year by Acquisition International Magazine

DALLAS – Highly regarded Dallas business litigation attorney Marcos G. Ronquillo has been named Leading Hispanic Business Arbitration and Litigation Attorney of the Year by Acquisition International Magazine.

The recognition reflects Mr. Ronquillo's distinguished 43-year legal career and reputation as one of the most accomplished trial attorneys in Texas.

According to AI's profile of Mr. Ronquillo, he is "raising the bar on diversity in the legal community."

"As attorneys go, they don't come much more experienced than Marcos G. Ronquillo. Mr. Ronquillo has spent much of his career representing governmental agencies such as the Dallas Independent School District and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, as well as Fortune 500 companies," the publication wrote. "The award-winning attorney specializes in high-profile cases where public policy and social concerns are at odds. A dedicated trial lawyer who takes the time to learn about his clients, Mr. Ronquillo makes clear communication a priority."

Mr. Ronquillo said that he is gratified by the recognition.

"Serving the citizens of the world and our international business community in Texas has been my passion for four decades,” he said. “I’m honored to be recognized for my work, and I look forward to many more years of service.”

In addition to his legal work, Mr. Ronquillo has served on the boards of JPMorgan Chase, the Dallas Museum of Art, the United States/Mexico Bi-National Chamber of Commerce, The Smithsonian National Latino Center Advisory Board, The Smithsonian National Campaign Steering Committee, and The Institute of Latino Studies Advisory Council at the University of Notre Dame.
