

Middletown Firm, Attorney General Settle Consumer Protection Suit for $1 Million

“Attorney General William Tong and Consumer Protection Commissioner Michelle H. Seagull filed a $5 million stipulation judgment against Safe Home Security and its president David Roman after the city-based company repeatedly failed over many years to comply with court-ordered,” reports The Middletown Press in their blog.

“The new judgment stipulation filed March 8 represents a settlement between the state and Safe Home to resolve claims brought by the state in its motion for contempt, Tong said in the news release. Families turned to Safe Home Security to safeguard their homes, and the company failed them, Tong said in a prepared statement. We have.”
