

MLB Sued in $1B Lawsuit for Pulling All-Star Game out of Atlanta

“Major League Baseball has been hit with a lawsuit for moving the All-Star game out of Atlanta following controversy over Georgia’s recent restrictive voting law,” reports Marlene Lenthang in ABC News.

“Job Creators Network, a conservative-leaning business group, filed the lawsuit on Monday of the Southern District in New York, where MLB is headquartered, demanding the July 13 game return to Atlanta.”

Read the article.