Benchmarking Your Hotline in 2015: How Does Your Data Measure Up?

A free on-demand webinar hosted by NAVEX Global says one of the most effective ways to measure a compliance program is by analyzing data from internal reporting systems. But how can you know what is good or bad without context?

The firm compiled 2014 calendar year statistics from more than 4,600 company reporting systems for its annual Hotline Benchmark Report. Some of the key findings be surprising; for example, retaliation reports are up 125 percent since 2013.

NAVEX Global says the webinar is intended to help participants be able to use industry benchmarks to understand:

- Whether your anonymous ethics hotline/helpline is truly effective
- If you're getting the right numbers and types of reports
- How to interpret hotline findings and put them to work in your compliance program
- What types of hotline data are best to use in board and executive reporting
