Navigating the Crossroads of Compliance and Security

Energy Central presents a free on-demand webinar on the delicate balancing energy providers face between meeting regulations and keeping transmission and distribution assets safe.

“Volumes have been penned on how to weather and respond to NERC CIP regulations, and even more volumes have amassed on the extra components required to truly keep assets safe,” Energy Central writes on its website. “In this hour, we’ll bring together both sides of the issue and examine how to blend processes. Since you’ll have to contend with both concepts using the same equipment, the same people and the same technology, smart thinking dictates looking at both needs and planning efficiently at the same time. But where do you start?”
