

New Series of Energy Stakeholder Dialogues Open in Czechia on 29 March

“The Director-General for Energy of the European Commission launched in 2021 a series of stakeholder dialogues co-organised with Representations of the European Commission in some EU countries. The objective of these dialogues is to offer invited stakeholders the possibility to exchange,” reports European Commission in their blog.

“Officials on the European Green Deal package. Ten dialogues took place in 2021 in Sweden, Germany, Bulgaria, Poland, Slovenia, Ireland, Latvia, Italy, Portugal and Greece, with over 600 participants in total. As in 2021, the planning and topics of the Energy stakeholder dialogues taking place in 2022 will take into account the political.”

Read the article.