

Where are State Liability Systems Heading? Lend Us Your Voice

The U.S. Chamber Institute for Legal Reform is once again sponsoring a survey of corporate general counsel and senior litigators to learn about their perceptions of each state's liability system. This study, which was originally fielded in 2002 and has been updated 8 times since, has become the primary benchmark that policy makers use as a highly credible source of information on individual state liability systems and on specific elements within those systems. This study is conducted by the Harris Poll, now operating as part of Nielsen.

General Counsel News is pleased to make participation in this study possible for its readers and to give you the unique opportunity to weigh in on which state liability systems are most in need of reform.

The survey for qualified participants will take approximately 15 minutes to complete. Your answers will be kept strictly confidential and will only be used in combination with those of other survey participants. Neither you nor your company will be identified as having participated. To participate, please fill out the form below and Nielsen will follow up with you shortly.
