

Nine Bradley Attorneys in Washington Named to 2019 Capital Pro Bono Honor Roll

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that nine attorneys in the firm's Washington, D.C., office were named to the 2019 Capital Pro Bono Honor Roll. Lee-Ann Brown, Greg Marshall, Patrick Quigley and Jessica Zurlo each received High Honors for performing 100 or more hours of pro bono service. In addition, Joshua Dhyani, Anna Lashley, Marc Nardone, Andrew Narod and John Parker Sweeney received Honors for completing 50 or more hours of pro bono service.

The Capital Pro Bono Honor Roll recognizes honorees who donated 50 hours or more of pro bono service during the last calendar year to those who cannot afford legal counsel. The 2019 Honor Roll recognizes all sectors of Washington's diverse legal community, including honorees from 176 law firms and individual practices, as well as federal and local government agencies, corporations, associations, law schools and public interest organizations.

Through Bradley's pro bono program, the firm's attorneys across all 10 of its offices devote a significant amount of time each year to pro bono work and community service. In 2019, the firm's attorneys and staff performed more than 15,400 hours of pro bono service valued at more than $5 million.

About Bradley

Bradley combines skilled legal counsel with exceptional client service and unwavering integrity to assist a diverse range of corporate and individual clients in achieving their business goals. With offices in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and the District of Columbia, the firm's nearly 550 lawyers represent regional, national and international clients in various industries, including banking and financial services, construction, energy, healthcare, life sciences, manufacturing, real estate, and technology, among many others.