

Noble Secures New Drilling Contracts

“Noble Corporation has secured new contracts for its drilling units, offshore driller’s president and CEO Robert W. Eifler revealed in Q2 2021 financial update. The company, which retired two of its stacked drillships during the second quarter, has already signed three contracts for legacy Pacific Drilling,” reports Adis Ajdin in Splash 247.

“In addition to the earlier reported one-well contract with Houston-based Enven, the 2013-built drillship Pacific Khamsin has secured a new contract with Murphy Oil in the US Gulf of Mexico for an estimated 83 days to begin in November 2021. Murphy is reportedly paying $230,000 per day. The 2011-built drillship Pacific Santa Ana.”

Read the article.