

Pace Gallery Hires General Counsel as it Explores Digital Assets

“The Pace Gallery LLC, a large contemporary and modern art gallery with outposts around the world, recently hired Halie Klein to be its general counsel. Klein, who spent the past seven years as a corporate associate at the law firm Willkie Farr & Gallagher in New York disclosed her new in-house role at,” reports Brian Baxtor in Bloomberg Law.

“Her move comes amid Pace’s plans to expand into the realm of digital art and non-fungible tokens, or NFTs, with several projects in that space underway. Marc Glimcher, a veteran art dealer who serves as CEO of Pace, told Bloomberg News in July that digital art NFTs can be a transformative change for the art business. Pace accepts.”
