Comprehensive Study: How Third-Party Risks are Managed Within Organizations

Phase 5, an independent market research firm, is conducting a comprehensive study of how third-party risks are managed within organizations.

Participants in the study will receive complimentary copies of the final report. All responses are confidential and will be reported only in aggregate form.

Some of the questions to be considered include:

- What are the top objectives organizations have when it comes to their third party risk management programs?
- What challenges do organizations face when developing their third party risk management programs, and what could undermine the effectiveness of their efforts?
- What processes do organizations employ to conduct third party due diligence?
- How does your organization compare to your peers when it comes to its level of third party program maturity?
