Post-Election Analysis: Impacts on U.S. Energy Policy

EY will present an analysis of U.S. midterm elections as the results may affect the nation's energy policy. The webinar will be Thursday, Nov. 6, at 11 a.m. Eastern time.

The midterm elections this year are on Nov. 4, and many key seats are in contention, including control of the U.S. Senate. The changes in some of these hotly contested races may have long-term impacts on US energy policy, EY says on its website.

EY's Washington Council EY will give a post-election analysis and share their insights on tax legislation and tax reform.

Panelists will be Donna Steele Flynn, Tim Urban and Jeff Petrich. The moderator will be Deborah Byers.

Register for the webinar.