ACC Workshop: Controlling External Legal Costs

Leading in-house counsel and progressive law firm partners will share new ideas and approaches to control external legal costs, when they gather at the ACC Legal Services Management Workshop, April 19-20 in Dallas.

Participants at the event will learn how internal and external counsel can collaborate to improve outcomes, efficiency, and predictability by using:

- Value-based fees
- Project management
- Process improvement
- Data analytics
- Change management

The Association of Corporate Counsel says the two-day curriculum uses a blend of instruction, practical tools, case study and small group exercises. The ensemble faculty of industry-leading practitioners brings insight, experience, and lessons learned from in-house, law firm and consulting perspectives.

Participation is limited to only 25 law firm partners and 25 law department leaders to ensure a rich, interactive experience and opportunities for exchange of ideas.

The event is CLE eligible for up to 11.25 hours of credit.

General Counsel News readers may use the code LSMGC17 to receive a $100 discount off the registration fee.

Register for the event.