“With emerging alternative lenders aggressively entering the market, traditional banks and lenders are looking to the digital mortgage as a competitive advantage,” HousingWire reports. “While originators have successfully automated the initial stages of the mortgage application and disclosure delivery process with electronic signatures, they haven’t fully digitized the entire mortgage workflow. With the help of eClosing and eVaulting platforms however, the “holy grail” of the digitization of complex mortgage transactions is now at arm’s length.”

Topics will include:

- How and where the industry is adopting eMortgage technology
- Legal and regulatory requirements
- E-apps, e-disclosures, e-closings, e-vaulting… where you should start
- Implementation options for a phased transition
- A live demonstration
