

Download: A How-To Guide to Ediscovery Processing and Review

Zapproved has published a guide to understanding in-house ediscovery processing and review.

The guide may be downloaded from Zapproved's website at no charge.

Whether you handle document review in-house or outsource it to your outside counsel, in-house legal teams can save significant time and money by processing and culling the data themselves.

An effective culling, processing and review system allows you to reduce, organize and review data to find only the facts that matter., the company says on its website.

This means you can:

- Reduce your ediscovery spend
- Minimize the volume of potentially relevant data
- Decrease the time it takes to review
