Download: How to Prepare Your Business for 2018 GDPR Requirements

Zapproved has published a report providing insights from a PREX17 summary on meeting the new GDPR rules by May 2018. The summary may be downloaded free of charge.

In May 2018, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) will go into effect, requiring companies that do business in Europe to adjust their strategies for data management. The GDPR standardizes data protection law across the member countries, but it doesn't specifically address preservation and discovery for U.S. legal proceedings.

The PREX17 session summary, "Data Privacy, the GDPR and Security All in One" explores the practical considerations for this transition with insight from Intel's Dan Christensen, U.S. Magistrate Judge Elizabeth Laporte and Jeane Thomas, Partner at Crowell & Moring LLP.

It discusses strategies to address:

- Article 30 requirements for detailed record keeping
- U.S vs EU perspectives on cross-border discovery and personal privacy rights
- ISO2l701 certification
